Managing Director Colliers International | Hong Kong

Nigel Smith, a property and real estate industry veteran with close to 30 years of experience, is the managing director for Colliers International Hong Kong; where he oversees the development and growth of the company and its people. Since his arrival, Colliers has reinforced its enterprising culture by improving its research capabilities, implementing relevant learning and development programmes, expanding the business and its service lines, and strengthening the Colliers' brand.

Nigel is a thought leader and expert in designing, marketing, and leasing tall office buildings and mixed-use projects across Asia, having worked with over 100 Grade A projects including many 'super-tall buildings' such as Taipei 101, 2IFC, ICC Hong Kong, Ping An IFC Shenzhen, and China World Tower in Beijing. He has extensive regional and local operations exposure in industry and a reputable network and has previously built office agency businesses in other global real estate companies while aiming to always deliver client centric insights and solutions.

Nigel is also a cause-led leader, his passions, which he shares with the rest of the business, revolve around diversity and gender equality, as well as personal development and growth – enacting change across the industry. He shares knowledge on driving collaboration in the workplace and creating opportunities and has become a leading voice in the workplace strategy and wellness movements.
