

WSC 2001 Jaime NIÑO

Editor, Sltrends.org.
Mark Twain Institute

*World Services Congress Hong Kong
20 & 21 September 2001*

Jaime Niño is a Doctoral candidate at London School of Economics as well as Editor of Sltrends.org. Jaime holds an MSc. in Public Policy in International Economics from the University of Michigan as well as an MSc. in Economics from the Universidad de los Andes. His academic interests include international trade in services, trade reform and trade negotiations, services sector statistics, and game theory. He has taught International Economics at Universidad de los Andes and Universidad Externado, and Economic Policy and Rational Choice at the LSE. Jaime was Executive Director of the Coalition of Service Industries Research and Education Foundation where he promoted academic work in services trade and services trade negotiations and assisted the creation of the first World Services Congress in Atlanta. The Foundation also undertook a series of educational events to disseminate services negotiation experiences with negotiators from the Western Hemisphere and elsewhere. In this capacity, Jaime Niño advanced the creation of RedServ, a business network in the Americas that promotes services trade liberalization and business facilitation in the Western Hemisphere.

Jaime Niño was assistant economic advisor of the President of Colombia and has done consultancy work for the Ministry of Trade of Colombia, the InterAmerican Telecommunications Commission, and the Corporacion Andina de Fomento, among other institutions.